TWO LIVES COME TO TRAGIC END

David Black, a Suicide and Wife Succumbs From Burns Received in Gas Explosion.

ONE TIME RESIDENT HERE

Local Relatives Receive Word From Lancaster, Ohio—Attend Funeral at Centerville, Indiana.

Mrs. Mary Brown and son, Charles H. Brown, deputy postmaster, went to Centerville, Wayne county today to attend the double funeral of Mr. and Mrs. David Black, former residents of this city, who met tragic deaths at their home in Lancaster, Ohio.

Mr. Black committed suicide by asphyxiation and his wife died from burns received in an explosion when she struck a match in the gas filled house. Mr. and Mrs. Black lived here for a number of years and are known by a number of the older residents. Mr. Black was a brother-in-law of Mrs. Mary Brown.

The suicide and tragic death occurred Monday evening, but the local relatives were notified only last evening and the telegram gave no facts, stating only that Mr. and Mrs. Black had been killed in an accident. Mrs. Black, following the explosion rushed from the house a mass of flames. She was burned so badly that she lived only a few hours.

The following from the Cincinnati Enquirer under a Lancaster date line tells of the double tragedy.

David Black committed suicide, his wife was burned so badly that she died and their house was wrecked Monday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Black were elderly people and neither had been in good health. During the absence of Mrs. Black, Mr. Black secured a long rubber tube, fastened it to the gas jet and wound it around his neck, placing the other end in his mouth, and committed suicide in this manner.

When Mrs. Black returned she lighted a match to prepare supper and the explosion occurred from the great amount of gas in the house. Mrs. Black ran from the house in flames, and before assistance could reach her she was so badly burned that she died.

The bed in which Mr. Black was lying caught fire, but the department extinguished the flames before the body was consumed.

Mr. Black was a prominent citizen and was engaged until quite recently in a flour mill. They had no children and no relatives here.

SERVICE CUT OFF HERE

Inconvenience Caused by Fire Will End Tonight.

Telephone service between the Rushville exchange and the Indianapolis exchange over the Independent Telephone company's lines was cut off today on account of a fire in Indianapolis early this morning. According to news first received here the Independent Company's building had been destroyed by fire, but a later report was that only the switch board had been burned and had destroyed the service for the time. The local company communicated with Indianapolis over the Bell telephone by way of Greensburg. A telegram at noon said that service would probably be re-established by tonight.

IS STILL A REPUBLICAN

Harry Sorden of Shelbyville Resigns Because of Business.

Harry C. Sorden of Shelbyville, who is well known especially among Republicans here, yesterday resigned as chairman of the Shelby county Republican central committee. Mr. Sorden does not resign to become a Bull Moose, but because, as he says, "my business interests are such that I can not give the interests of the Republican party the attention that it is deserving of and should have from the head of the organization." He closes the epistle with the assertion: "I am a Republican and will remain one and I will do all that I can as one of its loyal members and workers to further its cause."

HORSE SHOW TO BE OCTOBER, 16 AND 17

Three Thousand Dollars in Premiums Will be Given Away—Night Attraction Promised.

TWO-DAY COMBINATION SALE

Already Rush county horses are being groomed in preparation for the annual Rushville horse show which will be held here Wednesday and Thursday, October sixteenth and seventeenth. Already the officers of the horse show are beginning to make arrangements for the event. The combination sale which is always held in connection with the horse show in Davis Brothers' sale barn will continue for two days this year, Friday and Saturday immediately following the horse show. Heretofore it has lasted only one day. The prospects are so bright for a combination sale that it was deemed best to hold it two days.

Three thousand dollars in premiums will be given away at the horse show this year. It is expected to have something going on to entertain the crowd both day and night, and make this year's show the best one of any which has preceded it. The officers say that already lots of interest has been evinced in the show, and that a number of inquiries have been received in regard to the date. This is not only true of Rush county but in many surrounding cities.

SAY THEY HAVE 3 OF THE CULPRITS

Officers of Rushville Glove Company Declare They Will File Affidavits Against Vandals.

FOR MALICIOUS TRESPASSING

Officers of the Rushville Glove Company say that they have learned the names of three of the men or boys, whoever they may be, who painted the letter "G" out of the company's sign so as to make it read "Rushville Love Company," and that affidavits charging malicious trespass will be filed against them in a few days. It is stated that others may be caught in the net that has been set for the alleged culprits. The action of the defacers of the property, incensed the owners of the Glove company as well as the girls who are employed there. The vandalism entailed a great amount of expense to the company which had to fix the sign so that it read as it once did.

GOV. HADLEY MAY BE THE SPEAKER

Effort Will be Made to Get Missouri Chief Executive For Risk Notification.

MAY BE HELD IN NEWCASTLE

New Feature Will Open Congressional Campaign—Nominee's Great Popularity.

Newcastle and Henry county were agreeably surprised Tuesday afternoon when the news was flashed from Connersville that William L. Risk had been nominated for congress by the Republican district convention, says the Newcastle Courier. Because of the fact that Risk had not been a candidate and had never been mentioned for the place his elevation to the district leadership was necessarily surprising.

However, when the voters recovered from their surprise and made a study of the situation they received the nomination with enthusiasm and a general united booster movement for Risk was started. There is no discount on the popularity of the nominee in Henry county, his home, where the people know his life and his history and where his friends are a legion and his supporters numerous.

After the convention at Connersville plans were made for a notification meeting to be held at Newcastle at a date yet to be selected. A notification committee, one member from each county, was appointed as follows: Allen Wiles, Fayette; John Kimball, Franklin; George W. Williams, Henry; Verne Norris, Rush; Elmer Bassett, Shelby; C. W. Stivers, Union; Perry J. Freeman, Wayne, and Ora Myer, Hancock.

An arrangements committee of Newcastle citizens composed of James H. Jones, K. K. Kirk, D. T. Templeton, George M. Barnard and J. R. Hinshaw, was appointed. The latter committee will arrange the date and place for the ceremonies.

James E. Watson of Rushville is also on the job as a Risk booster and supporter. He has already started lines to secure a speaker for the notification ceremony, which will take the form of an enormous Republican rally, and is in communication with Governor Hadley of Missouri in an effort to secure him as a speaker.

The details of the event will be worked out at once and the arrangement completed as soon as possible in order to start the campaign.

Billy Risk's popularity and ability to make friends, his integrity, his honesty, his acquaintance and his avocation, that of a farmer, particularly qualified him as the standard bearer in the district and as a result of his nomination terror has been struck in the hearts of the Democrats and particularly among the Gray forces in Fayette county. They see visions of the winning Risk smile, the Risk hearty greeting and hand shake and the Risk popularity winning votes and redeeming the district for the Republican party. It is a very unpleasant situation for Representative Gray and his political brother, who directs the political craft of the present congressman.

Mr. Risk was in no way a candidate for the nomination. He went to Connersville to advocate the nomination of Judge M. E. Forkner of Newcastle and worked along that line. However, the other counties, looking to Henry county to furnish the nominee insisted that Risk should allow his name to be presented to the convention. He finally consented only a few minutes before the afternoon session and the candidacy swung through the delegates like wild fire.

EVERYTHING IS HEADED THIS WAY

Rush County Fair Representatives Return From First Day at Newcastle and Columbus Fairs.

GOOD EXHIBITIONS THERE

Most of Concessions, Race Horses and Shows Are Coming Here, Directors Say.

Representatives of the Rush County Fair Association were at the Bartholomew and Henry county fairs at Columbus and Newcastle yesterday, which was the real opening day, and they came back today with the report that everything was headed toward the Rush county fair, race horses, concessions, exhibitors and all.

The board of directors and the officers are more enthusiastic than ever about the fair this year. They are always enthusiastic, but they declare that the prospects are better this year than they have been for years. The fair is a week earlier this year, and for this reason it falls in a week when two exceptionally good fairs preceded it. These two fairs are so located that most all of the stuff is likely to come here because it is a shorter ship from either place than it is to any other fair that will take place the same week as the local one does.

In view of the fact that there has been so much rain of late the fair managers are very hopeful for fair weather next week. They believe that the fair will not be ruined out as it was last year. Last week all of the county fairs were spoiled by the heavy rains, and this week they are being impeded to a great extent by the falling weather.

The members of the board who went to Columbus yesterday say that they have a thriving fair there and that most of the concessions, race horses and exhibitors, aside from the local ones, promised to come to the Rush county fair. Chief among the concessions which the local representatives got at Columbus yesterday was "The Three Longs," a show which they declare is of unusual merit. They say it is way above the usual fair ground show. The show is similar to a minstrel first part, in which all sorts of late vaudeville acts are put on.

In keeping with its past policy the fair board will attempt to stave off all attractions of an immoral nature. The board has never allowed any show of that sort to set up here if it knew beforehand the nature of the show. Yesterday a typical "girl show" at Columbus wanted to come to Rushville next week, but the local representatives there said they would not allow the show on the fair grounds.

The secretary, William King, was

TWO FAMILIES IN REUNION

Many at Annual Gathering of New-houses and Blacklidges.

More than a hundred members of the Newhouse and Blacklidge families gathered at the city park today for the annual reunion of the two families. The attendance was as large as it has been in past years. As usual, the large basket dinner at noon was the main feature of the day. A program of music and speeches was carried out this afternoon. Many members of the two old families were here from all parts of Indiana, and few from outside the Hoosier domain.

at the Henry county fair. He says that the large list of entries on the speed card is planning to come to Rushville next week. There are a number of good shows at Newcastle which will also come here.

The members of the fair board say that the entries in the cattle department this year will be larger than they have been in years. There is an unusually large number of head of cattle being shown at both the Newcastle and Columbus fairs.

A new class has been arranged for the hog department this year so as to allow a new breed of porkers to be exhibited. The kind of hog that is uncommon in Rush county is the Hampshire, and for which there has never been a class here because no owners have sought to exhibit them.

It is reported that a large number of these were shown at Columbus, and that a great many would be entered here. In fact, the fair managers say that more Hampshires are entered than in any other class. Several Rush county farmers have begun raising them in the last year. They are a large black hog with a white ring around their body.

BIG FOUR BREAKS EXCURSION PACT

Joins C. H. & D. and L. E. & W. in Arranging For Sunday Special Rates.

TO ALTERNATE WITH FORMER

The Big Four is the latest road to break away from the arrangements entered into by the Central Passenger Association last spring whereby no excursions would be run this summer. Beginning August 25, the Big Four will start its Sunday excursions to Cincinnati, operating one of these excursions every other Sunday. Thus the Cincinnati-by-Big Four excursions will alternate with the excursions to Cincinnati over the C. H. & D. lines, as the last named road announced last week that its Sunday excursions would be resumed beginning August 18. So far as known now, however, the Big Four will operate excursions on no other divisions except its Cincinnati division. These excursions also serve Shelbyville, Greensburg, Lawrenceburg and some intermediate points. No arrangement has been made, however, for excursions from Cincinnati to Indianapolis.

COUPLE 71 YEARS OLD GET MARRIED

Mrs. Eva Lee and Harry Miller, Both Born in 1840, Apply For Marriage License.

SHE IS 18 DAYS OLDER THAN HE

They didn't totter, not Mrs. Eva Lee or Harry Miller as they firmly marched up, arm in arm, to the marriage license clerk in the clerk's office yesterday morning and demanded a license. There was nothing unusual about a couple of people, male and female, walking in to get a marriage license unless it is added that the marriage record shows that each one of the participants in the amalgamation is seventy-one years old. They didn't look the part. The marriage license clerk looked up astounded. But they said they were seventy-one. And another peculiar circumstance: they each have been married once and the bride is eighteen days older than the bridegroom. She was born November 5, 1840, and he, November 23. They were married by the Rev. V. W. Tevis. Both live in this county.

EDITOR INMAN IS MISTAKEN

Member of Bull Moose Publicity Bureau Lists Newspapers Which Carry Republican Banner.

ON THEIR MASTHEADS NOW

Such is Case in This District and Same Proportion May Prevail in Other Places.

B. R. Inman, editor of the Middletown News, who recently renounced whatever strings he had on to the Republican party and affiliated with the Bull Moose party and who is a member of the publicity bureau of the new party, has already begun working the dope sheet and attempting to line up the newspapers of Indiana for the Bull Moose party.

He has prepared a list of twenty-nine newspapers, dailies and weeklies jumbled together, which he says are standing for the Bull Moose party. In the case of three which reach the Daily Republican's exchange desk, the flopped editor is either misinformed, mistaken or has wilfully falsified.

A number of the newspapers mentioned in the list are from sections of the State other than that from which the Republican's exchanges come, and it can not be ascertained at this time how much veracity there is in the statements in regard to the newspapers.

The Greensburg News, edited by A. M. Willoughby, is fifth in the list. At present the Greensburg Review is carrying the Republican ticket in its editorial column and has repeatedly shown its dislike for the third party. In a long editorial recently Editor Willoughby came out unrevocably for Taft and the Republican party, and it was copied generally by the newspapers in this district since Mr. Willoughby was a pronounced Roosevelt man before the national convention.

The Shelbyville News, a morning publication, is another of the papers listed by Inman as Bull Moosers. The Morning News, edited by John J. Wingate, is an independent newspaper, and has no political inclinations in either direction. The News has not yet announced its intention of supporting the third term party led by Ex-president Roosevelt. In fact, the News has had several rather strong editorials denouncing the methods of the Bull Moose bosses.

The third newspaper mentioned in the list is the Shelbyville Republican, published and edited by Walter Montgomery, who recently bought the paper, and who was formerly in the newspaper business in Greenfield. Mr. Montgomery was a Roosevelt adherent before the convention, but up to date he has not announced his intentions of supporting the third term party, nor has he indicated by his editorial utterances that he has inclinations that way.

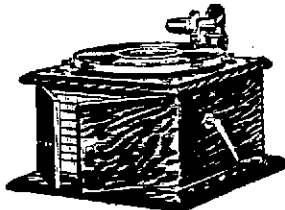

Included in the list are the two Richmond newspapers which have not been Republican newspapers for some time, the Indianapolis Sun which never was, the Indianapolis Star, which has been off and on for some time, mostly off, and other lesser lights, including the Starlets, offsprings of the Indianapolis Star, published at Muncie and Terre Haute.

B. R. Inman has addressed the following letters to newspapers he believes will enlist in the cause and it was published by the Shelbyville News, which added:

Having received the above letters with the urgent appeals, we wish to state if all the papers in the long list are like the "News" the support given

New York Graft Triumvirate Passes Out the Word.

"DEATH TO ALL INFORMERS"

That is the Grim Ultimatum Handed Down to Bridgie Webber and Harry Vallon by Mysterious Big Three
Who, According to Detective Burns,
Have Been at the Head of Horrid System For Levying Toll on Vice.

New York, Aug. 15.—Bridgie Webber and Harry Vallon have been persuaded by representatives of the three men named by Burns as the directors of police blackmail to conceal the identity of the men for whom Lieutenant Becker was working, according to word that has reached the district attorney.

James M. Sullivan, declining to act any longer as Vallon's counsel, hurried from the West Side court prison to tell Mr. Whitman that the threats and persuasions of the triumvirate—the lawyer-politician, the hotel man and the police department official—have silenced Rose's fellow informers.
For the past week, said Mr. Sullivan, messengers from the big three and from dishonest inspectors have visited Rose, Webber and Vallon. The messengers brought word that the informers were at liberty to make any kind of accusations they pleased against Becker, but that if they mentioned any of the names that Becker had given to Rose and Webber, they might as well kill themselves, because they would certainly be killed after they got out of prison.

Jack Rose declined to be influenced by threats or promises of reward. He told Mr. Sullivan that he would stand fast and that he would do everything he could to aid the district attorney in bringing to justice the big three of the gambling graft as well as the police officials who profited with Becker in the distribution of blackmail from gambling and disorderly houses. But it was evident to the lawyer that Webber and Vallon had been "reached."
Still more information has been obtained from bank officials by the district attorney as to Lieutenant Becker's deposits. While Becker was putting money in the Corn Exchange bank, the Lincoln Trust company, the West Side Savings bank, and the Empire City Savings bank, he was depositing also in the Chelsea Exchange bank. But in addition to Becker's deposits in the five institutions here named, he had four bank accounts in this city and three outside of New York city. There are also two safe deposit boxes in his name, one in the Lincoln Trust company's branch and the other in a safe deposit company whose name has not been made public. So that there is information as to twelve bank accounts and two safe deposit boxes.

The district attorney hopes to have by the end of this week figures as to seven other bank accounts, and from what he has been told he believes that the total deposits made by Becker on a salary of $2,250 a year will run pretty close to $200,000. Becker's lawyer, John F. McIntyre, declined to discuss the evidence brought out as to Becker's savings, but gave out that the accounts could be explained.

The story brought to Mr. Whitman from the West Side court prison by Lawyer Sullivan hardly surprised him.
Sensational as it appeared to be, Mr.
Whitman did not doubt that the triumvirate of blackmail had been using every effort to close the mouths of Webber, Vallon and Rose. He had heard previously of the threat made to Webber by the representative of a police inspector who called on Webber at 2 o'clock one morning and threatened him with death if he mentioned the name of the inspector. Mr. Whitman will let Webber and Vallon decide for themselves what their fate shall be. His agreement with them is a conditional one, based entirely upon the value of their evidence, and if they decline to reveal facts in their possession they may yet be indicted for murder.

"The situation has got down to this," said Mr. Sullivan, after seeing the district attorney. "Whitman has made a case against Becker and none of Becker's blackmailing employers seem to care a hang about Becker's situation. In fact, they have sent word to Rose, Webber and Vallon to throw Becker to the wolves. But they are determined that their own names shall not be brought out. Rose will make good. But Webber and Vallon have been reached, and I am afraid they have made up their minds to weaken. I have told Vallon that he is not playing square and that I will no longer act as his counsel."

The relations between Rose, Webber, Vallon and Jack Sullivan, the four in the West Side court prison, have become so strained that Sullivan came to blows with Rose and Webber. Sullivan has refused to make any sort of statement implicating Becker and has called Rose, Webber and Vallon quakers ever since he joined them in the West Side court prison.

The grand jury is in session again today and will hand down this evening seven indictments for murder in the first degree—indictments against the four plait men, Jack Sullivan, the pro and a superindictment in the case of Lieutenant Becker.

MORE ABOUT THOSE 1904 CONTRIBUTIONS

Odell's Testimony Conflicts
With Others.

Washington, Aug. 15.—Testifying before the senate campaign contributions committee, Benjamin B. Odell, who was chairman of the New York Republican committee in 1904, said that the Republican national committee in the campaign for Roosevelt got $40,000 of the $240,000 raised by E. H.
Harriman.

This testimony is at variance with statements by George R. Sheldon, who has told of this Harriman contribution as he recalled the facts from a conversation he had with the late Cornelius N. Bliss, treasurer of the national committee, in 1904. Mr. Sheldon said none of the $240,000 raised by Harriman went to the national committee, but that it was all paid to the Republican state committee.

Former Governor Odell testified that $200,000 of the $240,000 was paid to him by Mr. Bliss. The Odell testimony seems to conflict also with statements made by George B. Cortelyou, who was chairman of the Republican national committee in 1904. Mr. Odell says that the national committee furnished $500,000 to the New York Republican state committee, while Mr.
Cortelyou has fixed the sum at a considerably smaller figure.

Mr. Odell verified the statements that were made by Mr. Harriman before his death that he had been summoned to the White House to talk with Mr. Roosevelt because the latter was anxious about conditions in New York state. Colonel Roosevelt has never acknowledged that this was the purpose of his conversation with Harriman, and has denied that he urged Harriman to come to the rescue in New York state.

New Party Assailed in House.

Washington, Aug. 15.—Representative Stanley of Kentucky, the steel trust investigator, made a savage attack upon Theodore Roosevelt and George W. Perkins in the house. He characterized the Bull Moose convention as a "Punch and Judy" performance, and dubbed the Roosevelt organization as "this new party of progressive capitalism."

Death Due to Nightmare.

Bloomington, Ind., Aug. 15.—Lorraine Smith, aged forty-five, was strangled to death when he thrust his head through an iron bed on which he was sleeping. It is the opinion of the coroner that the accident was due to a nightmare.

MONEY MISSING

Saloonist a Victim of Mis-

TOLD BARKEEPER TO LOCK UP

And That Was the Last That George
W. Ford, Proprietor of Indianapolis Saloon, Saw of Charles Seaman or of the Neat Sum of $1,300 Which Was Being Carried Over For the Next Day.

Indianapolis, Aug. 15.—Charles Seman, a bartender, and $1,300 disappeared together from the saloon of George W. Ford. When Ford appeared at Central police station detectives began to look for Seaman, armed with a warrant charging him with grand larceny.

Ford cashes wage checks for the railroad men in Brightwood, and for that purpose supplied himself with $1,000 in cash from the bank. He says there was about $200 or $300 in the cash register, and he instructed Seman to place the cash with that in the safe and lock the safe carefully.

Ford went to the saloon late in the morning. He found no one had been there. The safe was open and the money was gone. Seaman's former home was in Martinsville, Ind.

INTERURBAN WRECK

Motorman Killed and a Dozen Passengers Seriously Injured.

Greencastle, Ind., Aug. 15.—One man was killed, two seriously injured and ten others badly hurt last evening when a limited interurban on the Terre Haute, Indianapolis & Eastern Traction line ran into an open switch four miles west of here.

The dead: Walter E. Fritsche, Indianapolis, motorman.

The injured: Robert Davis, Brazil, chest crushed, serious; F. May Cook, colored, Louisville, internal injuries,
serious; Mark Kester, Indianapolis, back injured; W. E. Small, Brazil, both hands crushed; Mrs. Margaret King, Brazil, head cut, right arm broken; Guy Troutman, Indianapolis, express messenger, head badly cut;
Charles Hoffman, Brazil, scalp cut, hip crushed; Laura Rugenstein, Indianapolis, face and head cut; Helton Osborne, West Terre Haute, right arm mashed; Pansy Osborne, aged five, same address, right hand mashed;
Barney Stevenson, Indianapolis, both arms broken, head cut and internally injured; Mrs. Mary G. Sinclair, Cloverdale, both arms broken, internally injured.

The wrecked car went through the switch into a ditch, and stopped with its pilot and part of the vestibule buried in a mud bank. The car was running at an estimated speed of forty-five miles an hour as it approached the switch, according to the statements of passengers. The information furnished at the company's offices was that the wreck was probably due to men who were installing a block signal system having left a switch open.
The car plunged into this switch and piled up at the end of the switch, also blocking the main track.

Fatal Interurban Collision.

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 15.—One man was killed and three injured in a head-on collision between an interurban car and a work train on the Chicago South Bend & Northern Indiana railway in this city. The victims were workmen who were riding on a flat-car at the head of the work train. O.
Luck, aged forty-five, head carpenter for the railway, suffered the loss of both legs and soon died.

Two Declined the Honor.

Crawfordsville, Ind., Aug. 15.—William Robinson, an attorney of Frankfort, was nominated by acclamation by the Ninth district Republican congressional convention here. The Rev. W.
D. Parr of Kokomo had previously been nominated by acclamation, but in a spirited speech he gave his reasons for not accepting the nomination.
E. E. Neal of Noblesville withdrew his name when it was placed before the convention by Hamilton county.

Crusl Murder of Infant.

Butler, Ind., Aug. 15.—The body of a girl baby, wrapped in a black skirt, was found in a vault at the Lake Shore depot here. The appearance of the body, which Coroner Briggs said had been in the vault at least two weeks, indicated murder.

Laporte Plant Burns.

Laporte, Ind., Aug. 15.—The Rumley Oil Pull company suffered a $25, 000 loss when its paint shop and test shops were consumed by fire. The loss includes about thirty new tractors which were practically completed.

Little Girl Missing.

Gary, Ind., Aug. 15.—Police are searching the entire Calumet region for little Anna Grubbs, five years old, who has been missing from her home in Gary since Saturday. The police believe the girl has been kidnapped.

Lightning Kills Lineman.

Greensburg, Ind., Aug. 15.—Frank

the employ of the Deuster County Independent Telephone company, was struck and killed by lightning while working on a pole.

A Considerable Force Now Gathered On the Border.
El Paso, Tex., Aug. 15.—In the last forty-eight hours eleven or twelve hundred rebels have gathered at Palomas, the Mexican settlement opposite Columbus, N. M., where early Monday morning United States and rebel troops, the latter smuggling ammunition, had an exchange of shots in which one man was wounded on each side. Shots have been exchanged nightly since that time, and Major Rice, Third United States cavalry, commanding the United States troops there, has asked for more soldiers, fearing a rebel attempt to cross the line and attack his men. General E. Z. Stever, commanding the department of Texas and in charge of the border patrol, sent but thirty cavalrymen, not believing that there is any danger.

IMPORTANT CHANGES
Panama Canal Bill Has Been Modified in Conference.
Washington, Aug. 15.—The senate and house conferees on the Panama canal bill have reached an agreement and this measure will be sent to the president.
Important changes are found in the bill as it emerges from conference, but it has lost nothing in its radical railroad features. If anything that section of the bill is more pronounced against railroad ownership of steamship lines than it was when the proposed legislation went to conference.

Road Making
II.—Advantages of Improved Roads.
By LOGAN WALLER PAGE,
Director Office of Public Roads,
United States Department of Agriculture.
Copyright by American Press Association, 1912.

NO road is as expensive as a bad road. We spend about $100,000,000 a year on our roads, and they are costing us in addition a bad roads tax of at least $250,000,000 annually. It actually costs the average farmer as much to haul a bushel of wheat from his farm to the railroad as it does to ship it from New York to Liverpool, 3,100 miles. The loss to the people of the United States annually on account of bad roads would more than pay for their general and widespread improvement. The burden of bad roads bears heavily upon the shoulders of the entire people, for such roads diminish the profits of the farmer because he must haul fewer loads, make fewer trips and market his products when the roads are passable and not when prices are best. They are a burden which compels the consumer in the city to pay heavily, not to swell the farmer's earnings, but to help the farmer to pay the money value of the absolute waste of energy and property due to bad roads. There would be an immediate and tangible saving by road improvement in reducing the cost of hauling. How much this saving would amount to in dollars and cents would depend upon the character and extent of the improvement and the amount of traffic passing over the road. In 1908 the railroads of the United States handled about 800,000,000 tons of freight originating on the respective railroads. Of this amount about 265,000,000 tons represented agricultural, forest and miscellaneous products, all of which moved over the country roads at initial or terminal points or both. The average haul from farms to shipping points in the United States is about nine and one-quarter miles. The average cost of hauling on the country roads is about 23 cents per ton per mile. The total cost of hauling 265,000,000 tons would therefore be about $2.16 per ton, or a total of $572,930,000. The possibilities of saving by the improvement of the roads may be understood when we compare the cost of hauling in Germany, France and England with the cost of hauling in this country. The average in these three countries is about 10 cents per ton per mile, and in many cases it is as low as 7 cents. If we cut the rate in the United States exactly in half by the improvement of our main roads we would still be 1½ cents over the average for the three European countries named. If we could do this it follows that our annual saving would be in the neighborhood of $250,000,000 on hauling alone. The wear and tear on horses and vehicles due to bad roads may seem a trivial matter until we take into consideration the fact that there are about 25,000,000 horses and mules in the United States, valued at $2,770,000,000, and about 1,500,000 carriages, buggies and wagons, valued at about $83,000,000. If by the improvement of the roads the vehicles would last one year longer and if one-tenth of the amount paid out for repairs were saved the resultant sum would run far into the millions. Property is much more valuable on an improved road than on an unimproved road. This increase in the value of the land adjacent to the improved road has been sufficient in many cases to pay for the improvement. An effort has been made to estimate the general increase in land values due to improved roads, and the average has been placed at somewhere between $2 and $9 per acre. There are positively thousands of examples where farms have been sold at an increase of from $50 to $200 per acre over their value before road improvement. An investigation recently made in Ohio shows that there are sixteen agricultural counties in the state that have less than 10 per cent of the roads improved, while there are forty-five agricultural counties that have more than 10 per cent improved. The average price of farm lands in the sixteen counties, according to the report of the United States census, was $48.50 per acre, while the average price of land in the forty-five counties was $65.79 per acre. In other words, the average price of farm lands in the good road counties was $17.29, or 33 per cent more than in the poor road counties. When we consider the fact that there are 873,000,000 acres of farm lands in the United States the possibilities along this line are rather startling. Even assuming that the land would be increased only $5 an acre the total enhancement on farm lands alone would be $4,365,000,000. Improved roads will yield an additional income by enabling the farmer to cultivate with profit land which otherwise would be less profitably employed.

There are about 400,000,000 acres of unimproved farm land in the United States. An average annual profit of 50 cents an acre on this land would mean a net gain to the wealth of the United States of $200,000,000 a year. Truck products and small fruits must be delivered quickly to market if any profit is to be realized. Truck and small fruit farms cannot be maintained with profit if a long haul over bad roads intervenes between them and the railroad station. A network of first class hard smooth roads will almost immediately increase the number of truck, fruit and dairy farms in any community. While the average value of wheat per acre is only $7.03 and corn $8.72, the average value of vegetables per acre is about $40 and of small fruits $80.

There is a steady trend of population from the country to the city, and this may be attributed to some extent to bad roads. During the ten year period 1890-1900 the cities gained 2,174,000 more people than the country. In 1890 only 16.1 per cent of the population lived in cities, in 1900 the city population represented about 31 per cent of the total, and now it is probably about 45 per cent. With hundreds of millions of acres of land uncultivated we have the spectacle of hundreds of thousands of human beings crowded into the cities, while year after year the human tide rolls restlessly in from the country to furnish more consumers and decrease the number of producers.

To prove that a relation exists between the question of population and roads the following illustration may be cited:

In twenty-five counties selected from eastern, southern, western and northwestern states it has been found that only 1½ per cent of roads were improved in 1904. These same counties show an actual decrease in population averaging 3.112 for each county for the ten year period 1890-1900. Twenty-five other counties located in the same states containing 40 per cent of improved roads show an actual increase in population for each county of 31,055. Whether good roads cause good schools, or vice versa, it is true that they exist together and that one of the most important reasons for their improvement is their effect on school attendance in the country. If the country schools are to have a maximum efficiency in training and instruction the children must be afforded facilities for reaching them. With improved roads the graded school and the consolidated school will replace the little one room one teacher schools so prevalent in many sections of the country. The possibilities of a region of improved roads are made apparent by many examples of schools which operate wagon regularly, which gather up the pupils and carry them to and from school. When the roads are placed in such condition as to make this practice general a tremendous impetus will be given to education in the United States. To illustrate this phase of the subject the following example may be cited: In five states conspicuous for their good roads there was in 1904 an average school attendance of 77.13 per cent, while in five other states having exceptionally bad roads the average was only 69.16 per cent. Furthermore, it has been ascertained that in the five states having an exceptionally high percentage of improved roads the white illiterates formed only three-quarters of 1 per cent of the total population, while in the five states which showed a scarcely appreciable amount of road improvement the white illiterates formed 4½ per cent of the total population, a percentage six and a third times as great as in the former case.

Party Differences.

In his speech before the Republican State convention James E. Watson drew a fine line of distinction between the two great political parties, the Democratic and Republican. He showed that it had ever been the policy of the Democratic party to complain about the existing order of things while the Republican party had been the one of progress, the one of accomplishment. He said in this regard:

What reason is there why power should be wrestled from the hands of the Republican party? What has it done to deserve the censure of the major portion of our citizenship? What has it not done, that it could have done, to add to the morality, the intelligence, the wealth or the happiness of the people of our land? Given power two and fifty years ago, a power it has relinquished but twice in that long stretch of time, what trust has it ever betrayed, what mission has it not fulfilled, when has it even proven false to the highest interest or the dearest concerns of the people of this land?

And, on the other hand, what has the Democratic party ever done to warrant the people in intrusting the machinery of government in its hands? For what great act, either legislative or executive, is it responsible since the birth of the Republican party? What policy has it ever espoused that has led to the present

Sam Sanderson Says:

That every queen does not wear a princess gown.

when pressed to frame legislation to meet the evils it decries; then it shows its utter helplessness and demonstrates its entire inability to build up, to construct. That is the peculiar province of the Republican party. For while it has not at all times met the highest expectations of all its adherents; while it has not yet by any means solved all the problems that confront and perplex us as a people, yet it is evident from the inherent character of these two parties, that these problems must be solved, if solved at all, by the element that compose the Republican party and by the fearless application of its national ideals to government.

Students Summer Work.

The lavish hand with which the wealthy scatter gold is indiscriminate and wasteful. Yet here and there much of it performs a worthy purpose, and in no case more so than when it helps the host of poor boys who are working their way through college by working as waiters in summer hotels.

From the stand point of table service as a science it is not quite up to the mark. No man can make a first class waiter when he may drop the gravy at any time to greet a classmate who appears as a guest at a near by table.

Nevertheless the fact of your ability to scan the lines of Virgil does not necessarily prove that you cannot remember all the items of a dozen headed order. And the fellow who has his eye fixed at a high point on the ladder is not going to settle down to the gait of an ox team, merely because some imperious guest does not feel like paying the customary tribute of tips.

In spite of all our worship of wealth, the democratic spirit does linger in our colleges to a large extent. There are few colleges where the fact that you passed the beans to a fellow townsman at the mountain hotel would prevent your being captain of the ball team, if you can play the game!

Colonel Durbin is not an ordinary office seeker. The heavy duties of the governorship no longer appeal to him except, as he says, as a chance to show that he can do the work of the place better now than he did before. He has accepted the nomination as a call to duty, and with an announcement that he intends to fight to the end of the battle and expects every man who rallies to his standard to do the same. An organizer he is without a superior in the State; as a campaigner he is capable of arousing great enthusiasm; as a man he has an army of warm personal friends scattered throughout the state who will enter the campaign with an enthusiasm born of affection as well as esteem.

The less Fred Landis, Bull Moose candidate for lieutenant-governor of Indiana, says, the better it will be for the new party. He has raised against President Taft for dismissing his brother from Porto Rican post office. The farther into obscurity he sinks the less will the attention of the people be called to the fact that he was repudiated by ten thousand Republicans in his own district when he was a candidate for congress four years ago.

The senate rebuked the president for fighting Lorimer, T. R. declared that a vote for the president is to vote for Lorimer, and time and again makes similar assertions that are no nearer the truth than this, and yet there are those who look to him as a leader among "reformers." Perhaps the world has never known a clearer case of childish delusion.

It's hard to feel much sympathy for the woman who grows about the high price of meat, and then says twice as much as her mother used to have, because it is too much bother to fix the leavings over into hash.

You may think a band of Apache Indians is burning alive a captive from a hostile tribe, when the trouble is merely the question whether a ball was called on Johnny Seven-yearold that should have been a strike.

As a personally conducted affair the third-term party has left the globe trotters completely in the rear. Cook has been the merest tyro compared with the ubiquitous colonel invariably and profusely on the spot.

The New York Sun wanted to know if there is no sense of shame at Sagamore Hill. If the answer is to be found in the billingsgate that flows from that source then it must be NO.

Is Gov. Wilson, if elected president, going to say "Me too" to W. J. Bryan as quickly as he did on the question of the Parker chairmanship at the Baltimore convention?

Resolutions Adopted At District Convention

The following is the text of the resolutions adopted at the Republican district convention in Connersville:

Be it resolved by the Republicans of the Sixth district of Indiana assembled, that we reaffirm and endorse the national Republican platform adopted at Chicago in June, 1912; also that we reaffirm and endorse the platform adopted by the Republicans in convention at Indianapolis August 6, 1912.

And be it further resolved, that we are heartily in sympathy with the administration of William Howard Taft and pledge him and the nominees of the Republican State and this congressional convention our hearty cooperation and support for their election.

We further resolve, that we believe in the principles and doctrines of the Republican party; that the Republican party is not merely a party of promise but of progress—not only of hopes, but of history—a glorious country for the past fifty years. And we pledge to the people a continuance of wise progression that means the welfare of common humanity.

AMUSEMENTS

The Juanita club will meet at the home of Mrs. Walter A. Smith, 128 East Eighth street tomorrow afternoon.

* * *

Miss Nellie Drake, assisted by her mother, was hostess for the T. C. C. at her home west of the city Wednesday afternoon. Following a well arranged musical program a two course luncheon was served, one of the very interesting features of the pleasant afternoon. Seventeen members of the club were in attendance.

The twelfth annual reunion of the Krammes family, the descendants of the late Andrew Krammes, was held Wednesday at the home of Lewis Krammes, three miles southwest of this city.

The morning was mainly spent in meeting the relatives from a distance; at the car, and in exchanging greetings. The large, bountiful feast at noon was the main feature of the day, and was enjoyed by all. The afternoon was spent in having a general good time. Games and music were enjoyed by the younger ones. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served in the afternoon. Late in the afternoon all had to part but were planning a meeting a year hence at the home of Thomas Krammes of Gosport.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Krammes and son Carl of Gosport; Mr. and Mrs. Grant Krammes and son Rex of Greenfield; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Krammes of near Carthage; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Krammes of near Gowdy; Mr. and Mrs. George Krammes and daughter Mahel of near this city; Mr. and Mrs. George Reibsoner, daughter, Della and son Lemon, Lewis Reibsoner, George Williams, Mrs. Katie Williams and daughter Blanche, Mr. and Mrs. Lon Ketchum, Mrs. Rosa Reibsoner, all of Connersville; Mr. and Mrs. Moore and family of near Carthage; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Patterson of near Homer; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Reed and daughter Dorothy of near Gowdy; Miss Allene Kirk of Shelbyville; Miss Wylvia Krammes and Misses Nelle and Irene Lowden of Indianapolis; William Krammes of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Otto Krammes and daughter Lorene, Mr. and Mrs. Rolla Dearing and daughter Elsie, Mr. and Mrs. Onie Gardner, Miss Edna Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Horatio Webb and sons, Esta and Frank of near this city; Mrs. Harriet Gardner of this city, Miss Roth and brother of Gowdy and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Stiers and family of near Clarksburg.

JUST PLAIN DRUNK.

Oliver Newland was fined one dollar and costs this morning in police court for public intoxication. He was unable to pay and went to jail for eleven days. Newland was arrested last night by Chief McAllister.

Shelbyville Democrat: Marriage license was issued Wednesday by County Clerk Coyle to Harry R. Piles, twenty-two years old, son of John J. Piles of this city, and Miss Rena B. Hill, twenty-one years old, daughter of George Hill of Rush county.

NO CLEW YET.

Since the robbery of the St. Paul hardware company's store last week there has been no clew found and the proprietors as well as the officers are as much in the dark as they were that day. The store was entered about 2 o'clock and four shotguns, a half dozen safety razors and a quantity of ammunition were stolen. The thieves made their escape in two fugitives.

AMUSEMENTS

The Portola offers the usual two reels tonight. "A Child of the Purple Sage" is an Essanay western drama featuring G. M. Anderson. It is said to be a dramatic picture telling a thrilling story. "The Dream of a Moving Picture Director" is a Lubin comedy.

"The Lure of the Footlights" is the title of the first picture at the Princess tonight. It is a Pathe picture and is said to be a powerful drama. The other is a Kalem comedy, "The Pugilist and the Girl." Tomorrow a feature war picture, "The Drummer Girl of Vicksburg" will be shown.

DEATH MESSAGE.

Greensburg News: At work on a pole of the Decatur County Independent near the country residence of John Bright, nine miles west of this city, Frank Newsom, 25, lineman, was electrocuted with a sickening suddenness about 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, when a death message was flashed to him as a result of a telephone wire dropping across the I. & C. high tension trolley at St. Paul, six miles away.

IT IS A WONDER.

Ft. CHAPTER IV.

A Haphazard Meeting.

I was to make my bow to society the following week, the occasion being that wonderful reception at which Laura Hazard was to be the bright particular star. She was to hold the center of the stage in the limelight while I was to be tucked away on a back line of the chorus to find out Who's Who in Society and Why. It was a strenuous time for me, those days preceding the reception. I always went home so tired that Jo said I talked in my sleep about "color" and "texture," and jumped sometimes as if the dressmaker had stuck me with a pin. I wasn't to become an actual member of the family until they moved back home from the hotel.

Besides the mother, son and daughter, there was one other member of the family, John Crowninshield, Mrs. Hazard's brother, a lawyer whom the society reporters had let alone more than ten years ago. He had insisted upon becoming a confirmed old bachelor, and had dropped out of sight socially. He might have been a bachelor, but I was prepared to deny that he was old. True, there was a bit of silver at his temples, but it merely made him look distinguished and harmonized beautifully with his eyes; gray and clear that looked right through you like Mr. Partridge's, only more so. He had a handclasp that made you feel immediately as if he were your long-lost brother, and you'd swear by him to your very last breath.

Laura Hazard was tall, very blond, very pretty, altogether distinguishable if you say such a thing about a woman—with broad shoulders and thin lips, giving one the impression that she had just materialized from a picture in a fashion book. She slipped into every-day conversation with me without any reference as to who I was or what I was. It gave me a clear understanding of my position. I was one of them; there was to be no doubt of me. I had made good until I proved otherwise. They had stuck me up on the top rung of the ladder, and all I had to do was to stay there.

My meeting with Hap took place on a crowded street at a time when I was more or less disheveled from a whole morning's sojourn in a milliner's shop. We were about to rush back to the hotel and grab luncheon—Jo saw me only at breakfast and when I was asleep—for we had an engagement with the dressmaker at two, when just as we reached the curb a young man driving a long, low, ratty, battleship-gray car, drew up behind the limousine and waved to us. "Just want to say I can't stop for luncheon, mother," he called. "Got a deal on with Peabody and haven't time."

He was about to change gear preparatory to leaving when he began to stare at me and I knew he was looking at the wisps of hair that dangled about my ears. His mother signaled to him.

"You must not neglect your meals for any deal," she said firmly. "You must take time—this is Miss Codman—think of your health. Let Peabody wait. Besides, luncheon is ready anyhow. We're in a hurry, too. I ordered it by telephone."

He acknowledged me and I bowed

GRANDMOTHERS USED SAGE TEA

To Darken the Hair and Restore Gray and Faded Hair to Its Natural Color.

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair and are fast following suit. The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready-to-use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. As a scalp tonic and color restorer this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers. The growth and beauty of the hair depends on a healthy condition of the scalp. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy quickly kills the dandruff germs which rob the hair of its life, color and lustre, makes the scalp clean and healthy, gives the hair strength, color and beauty, and makes it grow. Get a 50 cent bottle from your druggist today. He will give you money back if you are not satisfied after a fair trial. Special Agents, Hargrove and Mullin.

30,000 VOICES!

And Many Are The Voices of Rushville People.

Thirty thousand voices—What a grand chorus! And that's the number of American men and women who are publicly praising Doan's Kidney Pills for relief from backache, kidney and bladder ills. They say it to friends. They tell it in the home papers. Rushville people are in this chorus. Here's a Rushville case.

S. Bebout, 404 W. First St., Rushville, Ind., says: Doan's Kidney Pills are just as represented and I am glad to recommend them. I had pains through my back and kidneys and the action of my kidneys was irregular. When I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills I did so and they soon brought relief."

Mr. Bebout is only one of many Rushville people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills. If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mr. Bebout had the remedy backed by foster testimony. 50c. all stores. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. "When Your Back is Lame—Remember the Name."

to him while she was still talking, and we both smiled. It was funny. The next minute I was in the limousine.

"Oh, all right," he agreed cheerfully, and waited for us to start.

I don't know what he thought as he followed; I don't know if he knew who I was. I leaned back in the limousine—thinking of only one thing—that I was missing the best club match at tennis in years, a thing I had given my head to see.

We were caught in a jam out of which the gray car wriggled ahead of us, so that when we reached the Somerset we found it drawing up to the curb and a most impatient young man pacing up and down the hallway of the suite.

"I've just got to see Peabody," he said, "and be at the ball game at three."

I knew my job when I saw it coming straight toward me.

"Who's going to pitch?" I asked.

It was the only thing I could think of in a hurry. It was electrical! He stopped short in his wild stride, stared at me an instant, and this time he did not look at the wisps of hair dangling about my ears; then he put out his hand, grabbed mine and pumped it up and down enthusiastically.

"Who's Going to Pitch?" I Asked.

"Say, do you really understand baseball?" he asked.

"I do, really." The question was so identical his mother's that I smiled and he grinned back, thinking he understood even if he didn't. "I can almost tell when a man is going to bunt by the way he walks to the plate."

He grinned again, took a step closer—actually I thought he was going to kiss me—and gave my hand another up and down, with some additional pats for good measure.

"You're too good to be true," he announced.

"Goodness me!" I laughed. "Why, there are plenty of girls who understand baseball."

"Well, they don't travel in my set. No. Stupidest lot of girls you ever saw," he confided. A thought struck him so suddenly and pleasantly that it fairly jumped from his eyes, and he took another step closer. Really he kept me scared! "Don't you want to go this afternoon?"

Of course I couldn't, or the next afternoon, or even the next week. We were dated up for every day. I was awfully sorry. I knew right off I was going to like him. He was so easy to know, and good to look at, too, strong and husky, his skin tanned already as if he kept pretty much outdoors. His thick blond hair was worn long, a relic of football days, I suppose, and a characteristic forelock hung aslant one clear gray eye. Those eyes ran in the family.

We had an enthusiastic luncheon. It couldn't have been otherwise bubbling from such an enthusiastic young man with Mrs. Hazard holding in on that chuckle of hers while we talked "curves" and "fade-aways" and things she didn't understand any more than so much Chinese.

When the gray car finally drew away from the curb down below, Mrs. Hazard looked at me and chuckled.

"It worked!" she whispered. "It actually worked!" And as she looked at me one eye was curiously a-twinkle.

That was the only conversation I had with Hap until the night of the reception. I didn't have time. Sometimes I saw him from the limousine, but it was just a "zip" and we were both gone; sometimes I nodded to him across the room with the telephone receiver glued to my ear and my lips ready to frame an order when the "hello" came. I was Secretary of Frivolous Affairs, all right enough. There were days when we almost dined in the limousine between dressmakers and milliners, other days when we saw everybody down to the candlestick-maker; again when I copied memoranda until my arm ached.

And I had vainly fancied myself Cinderella with Mrs. Hazard as the fairy Godmother. When she waved the wand which was giving me my job, all I had to do was to come down the grand stairway looking for the Prince. In my opinion Cinderella had a snap sitting at home before the kitchen fire while the people who had that fall affair in hand got it going.

One little incident happened that gave me something to think over during the drudgery of those days, and with everything that happened afterward, I put it down in my mind as the beginning of things. Laura and I were on our way down Commonwealth avenue one afternoon, when suddenly she sat upright and looked through the door of the car.

"The Duc de Trouville!" she exclaimed, as another car passed.

I craned my neck inelegantly, but of course I did not see him; the car was gone. I knew that the duke had come to America—to well, who shall question the motives of a duke?

Something in her expression, the way she turned and looked at me seriously, intently, made the words significant. I was inexperienced enough then to jump at conclusions.

"The Duc de Trouville!" I repeated.

"Is he the lucky man?" The question was impertinent; I knew it the moment I had uttered it.

"Well, no, he isn't," she answered, and laughed to cover my embarrassment. "In fact, that's all newspaper stuff about announcing my engagement. The house just needed doing over and it was done over, but not for a wedding. I shall get married some time, but not now. I am not engaged to anybody, and His Grace is still looking for the biggest prize. He's worth it, too—his title goes back to the time when titles in France meant something. I could win him if I tried; I've a pretty snug fortune, and of course a great deal would depend on the generosity of a settlement when the Duchess de Trouville is selected."

I smiled and she laughed outright.

"But somehow he's so important. He travels with a retinue, you know—I guess you call it that; secretary, two valets, a butler and a chauffeur—and I'm very much afraid he only appeals to my sense of humor. That isn't the proper spirit to go at marrying a duke."

"The Duchess de Trouville!" I mused. I was thinking of the bucolic gentleman pitted against the title. "It's a pretty name."

"Yes, but I know one prettier," she smiled, then suddenly: "I've been wondering if a title is worth all the fuss and bother. If I would always be contented with just that? What do you think about it, Loulie?" It was the first time she had called me by my first name.

"I'm rather old-fashioned, Laura," I replied, "and the continental idea of arranged marriages doesn't appeal to

HAY FEVER ATTACKS QUICKLY ENDED

Just Try Ely's Cream Balm, A Cleansing, Healing Antiseptic Cream.

Are you half sick for two or three months every summer with Hay Fever—violent sneezing spells, running at the nose, intense itching in the corners of the eyes, pain and soreness in the back of the throat, at nights a stifled-up feeling in the head and an asthmatic wheezing in the throat and chest? If so, you can get almost instant relief by simply using a cleansing, healing antiseptic Cream called Ely's Cream Balm.

Hay Fever is due to an extremely sensitive condition of the membrane lining the nose and throat. Dust, smoke and certain odors irritate this delicate inside skin, it becomes inflamed, caused a watery discharge from the nose and violent spasms of sneezing.

Ely's Cream Balm will relieve all these distressing symptoms in five minutes' time. It opens up the air passages, soothes, heals and strengthens the weakened, inflamed membranes, restores them to healthy, normal condition, so that you are not subject to Hay Fever attacks.

me. I believe in marrying for love, wading through fire and water and all that sort of thing if necessary, and then abiding by the consequences. If you love the duke, marry him; if not—

"I don't love him; I don't even like him," she interrupted. "He's so polite, so terribly polite, so clever, so smooth, so polished that—well, I always feel just a little suspicious of him."

"Gracious!" I laughed. "Why, objection usually comes from exactly opposite reasons. You wouldn't have him otherwise, would you?"

"I don't know. Once Winthrop shook me good for skating on ice which he had warned me might give way." Winthrop, whose last name is Abbott, is the bucolic gentleman. "And, well, I'm awfully fond of Winthrop."

We both laughed. "The Duchess de Trouville," she mused after awhile. "It is a pretty name, isn't it?"

CHAPTER V.

One of the Frivolous Affairs.

Notwithstanding my weary lids and aching limbs, I gilded—actually—back and forth before the mirror on the memorable night of my entree into society after Martha, Mrs. Hazard's maid, had hooked me into my gown, and I couldn't believe that the mirrored reflection was my own. There was only one thing needed to make me absolutely happy, and that was Jo. We had, all of us, moved into the old house made new, that morning, and it was the very first time in all our lives that Jo and I had been separated. I wanted her now. I wanted to cry a little happy tear on her shoulder and have her pat my hair. But I didn't have her. She had gone to a lecture, anyhow, on the Whereness of the Which, or something equally intellectual, and I was in the middle of one of the most beautiful suites I had ever seen—only bath, old-rose bed room, blue-brocade boudoir—suddenly, very much alone.

"I'll Do My Best. The Duke Shall Be Ours."

I don't know what I might have done. I'm sure I would have cried and spoiled my nose if there hadn't come, just at that particular minute, a knock on my blue-brocade boudoir door from Laura's side of it and saved me.

"Won't you come in?" she invited when I opened the door. "We will form a mutual admiration society. I know I am looking my best. I'm neither pale nor am I flushed. Isn't my gown beautiful?"

"You are exquisite," I told her, and she was, with her blond hair in a thick loose braid about her head and the simple, shimmering white gown.

She laughed and kissed me French fashion on each cheek. I know I flushed; I hadn't expected a caress.

"You mean that, too," she said, "or you wouldn't say it with the ring true in your voice."

"Of course I do," I replied. "I never say anything I don't mean."

"Not now," she laughed. "You'll learn soon."

I laughed, too, then we laughed together, a bit hysterically, for deep down we were both nervous. You see, it was my coming-out party.

"Now, what shall I say to you?"

"You don't have to compliment me," I admonished.

"But I shall," she insisted. "You are lovely, and that gold gown is wonderful."

"Your mother is just too good to me," I told her, and I know there were tears under my lids, or wherever

I keep tears, just waiting for me to blink to jump out. She didn't know I had to shine just a little brighter than any one else.

"I wanted a few jewels," she remarked, surveying herself, "but mother said no. She doesn't think a girl should wear jewels until she's married." She turned suddenly and signaled Caroline to withdraw. When the door had closed upon the departing figure of the maid she looked at me. "And that brings me to a request. Will you take Winthrop under your protection tonight? He doesn't know many of these people and doesn't care to know them. He's going to like you, Loulie; you are so real, so very much just girl. He thinks we are superficial. Isn't that cheeky of him? I'm making myself believe he's coming here for my sake when I know he's after local color for a novel he's doing; slamming society and the idle rich in every chapter and getting poetical about cabbages and things. You'll look after him, won't you?"

"I'll cling to him," I assured her. "I shall be all alone myself."

PRINCE KATSURA

Japanese Ex-Premier Dominant Figure in Far Eastern Affairs.

RUSSIA AND JAPAN ARE JOINING HANDS

Losing No Time In Fencing Off the Far East.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 15.—Russia's attention for the moment is quite absorbed by far eastern affairs. Turkey no doubt also interests the czar's ministers, but before they can play an active part in southeastern Europe they must first feel quite secure in China and Manchuria. And at present events there are moving rapidly. Owing to the mikado's death Prince Katsura quitted this country sooner than he at first intended, but not before he had attained the aim and object of his journey. True, he has signed no fresh treaty and made no new proposal. But he has taken with him to Tokyo the certainty that in all future emergencies the two ex-adversaries will act together in the far east. Outsiders desirous of exerting political influence there, or influence which can be said to have a political aspect, must apply to the two self-constituted guardians of the Pacific. No neutralization schemes such as Mr. Knox's Manchurian railway project will stand any chance. They are eliminated already. The far east is ear-marked.

These hardly perceptible changes in the international situation are of momentous interest to the people of the United States, and during the last few weeks the American embassy here has been working at high pressure recording them. Long ciphered telegrams frequently are dispatched to Washington or received from that city in St. Petersburg.

And no wonder. For the policy at present decided upon by Russia and Japan leads straight to the partition of Manchuria and outer Mongolia, and to the overlordship of those empires in China proper. They are determined to lose no time in fencing off the far east, as it were, so that come what may, no upheaval there may upset their plans.

Father of Seven a Suicide.

Hartford City, Ind., Aug. 15.—John Knecht, aged thirty-eight, became despondent and ended his troubles by taking poison. Knecht was the champion sheep shearer of Blackford county and the father of seven children.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

A son has been born to Mrs. John Jacob Astor.

The dowager duchess of Genoa, grandmother of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, is dead.

Jack Johnson has signed articles to meet Joe Jeannette in a ten-round bout in New York on Sept. 25.

The bout between One-Round Hogan and Willie Ritchie at San Francisco is off because of the serious illness of Hogan.

The senate has repassed the pension appropriation bill with a provision abolishing all pension agencies Jan. 31, 1913.

James P. Goodrich, former state chairman of Indiana, will be connected with the New York office of the Republican national committee.

The transfer tax appraisal of the estate of Frank Work, filed in the surrogate's office at New York, shows that he left an estate worth $14,228,808.

The senate has passed the army appropriation bill, which carries about $34,000,000. This is about $6,000,000 more than the original house bill provided.

Albert Twyford, an American, who committed suicide at Vichy, is said to have been gambling heavily and to have owed a large hotel bill which he could not pay.

The Democrats of the house in caucus adopted a resolution committing the party to an amendment to the pending naval bill authorizing the construction of one battleship.

William B. McMaster, vice consul at Cartagena, Colombia, was killed while hunting a few days ago. McMaster was attacked and badly wounded by a crowd of ruffians two years ago, and in defending himself he killed one of them.

WILSON UNABLE TO PARTICIPATE

Head of Ticket Cannot Attend Marshall Meeting.

PREVIOUS DATE INTERFERES

It Seems That the Jersey Executive Had Contracted an Engagement to Attend the Trenton Fair Next Tuesday and Thus Finds Himself Unable to Go to Indianapolis to Attend His Running Mate's Notification.

Sea Girt, N. J., Aug. 15.—Governor Wilson, after refusing regrettably the pressing invitation to go to Indianapolis to participate in the notification ceremonies of his running mate, Governor Marshall, indicated that for the next month and a half at least he will confine his speeches and public appearances to New Jersey rallies and to non-partisan gatherings in other states. The engagements on the diary do not yet take up so much time, but there will be no trouble to fill out the dates.

Although invitations are coming in daily to fill in about every day and most of the nights, the Democratic nominee and his managers are agreed that it will not be well for him to undertake any formal campaign efforts until after the middle of September. In the meantime he will accept such invitations as will not interfere with his manifold tasks of being a governor and nominee at the same time. When the governor made up his mind not to go to Indianapolis, he refused about as many invitations for a man to attend upon a single occasion as it is possible to get. Virtually every prominent Democrat in the middle west from Governor Marshall down had been keeping the wires hot and the mails heavy for more than a week urging him to come. An engagement with the New Jersey Democrats at the Trenton fair grounds next Tuesday stood in the way. Of course one or two other things contributed. The following telegram was sent to Governor Marshall: "Deeply honored and complimented by your invitation for the 20th and by the number of men whom I would wish to serve who have joined in urging it, but I find that I cannot honorably withdraw from engagements made here in New Jersey before I knew of date for your notification. Please accept my warmest assurance of deep regard and great disappointment. You will not need me to make the day a notable event of which all Democrats will be proud."

In commenting on this the governor said that so far as speaking was concerned no one would suffer by his absence, as he knew Governor Marshall to be a splendid speaker, able to stay and convince any kind of crowd.

STEEL BILL VETOED

President Explains His Action on This Tariff Measure.

Washington, Aug. 15.—Undeterred by the action of the house, which passed the wool bill over his veto, President Taft sent a message to congress in which he vetoed the steel bill, passed by the house and senate and sent to him for his signature. The president based his veto of the steel bill—the metal schedule of the tariff law—on the ground that it was framed "without consulting the reports of the tariff board and provided only for revenue and not for the protection of American industries."

The house repassed the vetoed bill within two hours after it had been returned from the White House with the president's veto message. The vote was 173 to 83.

Aged Artist Marries.

New York, Aug. 15.—John Christopher Gillet is a grandfather, but in his seventy-sixth year the artist and globe trotter has proven that he can love as well and as ardently as his grandsons. Today he led to the altar Mrs. Rachel Kendall, herself a grandmother, but showing few traces of the seventy-two years she has lived. "Love really makes us all young," said Artist Gillet.

Engineers Save Young Girls.

Rochester, Ind., Aug. 15.—Engineers Brown and Haggerty of the Erie railroad rescued Fred and Edna Drake, fourteen and sixteen years old, and Ruth Copeland, aged twelve, from Lake Manitou, near here. The children were boating and their boat capsized in fifty feet of water.

RUSHVILLE MEN AT NEWCASTLE

Local Trainers Win and Many Others Start Today and Tomorrow With Good Prospects.

MARLE STILL IS VICTORIOUS

Scott Brannan Finishes in Money in Two Races at Columbus—All Coming Here.

Rushville horsemen and Rush county owned and bred horses literally "cleaned up" at both the Newcastle and Columbus fairs yesterday. And incidentally it might be mentioned that there will be the greatest galaxy of local horses at the Rush county fair next week that ever raced here, because practically all of the race horses at the Henry and Bartholomew county fairs this week will be shipped here.

Scott Brannan, the colored trainer of this city, who has had great success with horses, had a horse in two of the three races on the Columbus speed card yesterday, and in one he won second money and in the other, fifth money.

In the three-year-old pace, Show Me, a black horse, won second money, finishing second each heat. The track was very heavy and the best time was 2:27 1/4. In a large field of entries Florence Simmore, a brown mare took fifth place in the racing summary of the 2:25 trot. All three heats were in 2:21 1/4.

J. C. Christman of this city was scheduled to win the 2:14 pace with his pacing horse, J. C. Patchen, at Columbus this afternoon. Christman has yet to see the first horse this season that can beat his animal. He has been racing practically the same horses as he went against this afternoon, and he has never failed to win first money. Gay Patchen, a brown mare, driven by Dave Wagoner, the Manilla horseman, was entered in the 2:14 pace.

Clell Maple, who has a stable of six promising horses out this year, is continuing his winning streak at Newcastle this week. He will race here next week. Game of Chance, a brown colt sired by The Patchen Boy and owned by O. M. Harton, west of the city, is proving a consistent winner this year. Yesterday he took the three-year-old trot in straight heats without extending himself. The best time was in 2:27 over a heavy track.

Lady Maude S., a Patchen Boy filly, owned by William Harton of this county, in Clell Maple's stable, won third money in the three-year-old trot yesterday, the best time being in 2:27 1/4. Lady Maude S. has never failed to finish inside the money this year.

Clyde Nebro, Fred Dagler, Frank Lindsay and John Dagler, all Rush county trainers, are at Newcastle this week with their horses and will ship to Rushville for the races at the fair here. Fred Dagler won third money in the three-year-old trot yesterday with Tom Marshall.

Fred had Springline entered in the 2:18 trot at Newcastle today. Springline was also entered in the 2:24 trot for Friday, but will be raced in only one event. James K. Nebro, in the stable of Clyde Nebro, was entered in the 2:25 pace today. Florence Patchen, owned by James Morris of Columbus, and in the stable of Clell Maple, was scheduled to be raced in the 2:25 pace also. Florence Patchen and Nellie Gray were also entered by Mr. Maple in the 2:15 pace which will be raced tomorrow.

Billy H., Frank Lindsay's horse, was to be raced in the 2:15 pace today at Newcastle, as was either James K. or Martin Kelley, both in Clyde Nebro's stable. Martin Kelley is also entered in the 2:11 pace tomorrow.

John Dagler had Ruth Randall, the grand circuit trotter, entered in the 2:18 trot today and the 2:14 trot tomorrow. Osis and Signal, two trotters in Clell Maple's stable, Springline, Fred Dagler's trotting horse, and Theo. Wilks, a trotter which John Dagler is racing, are all entered in the 2:24 trot tomorrow.

The following is the letter:

Enclosed please find progressive party press matter. You will note that part of this matter is exclusively yours. We send a list of known and now outspoken progressive papers in the State. It is our suggestion that you place the papers on this list upon your own exchange list, and that you make it a point to see that your paper goes to all of them regularly. Further, we suggest that you send marked copies to these exchanges, and to your press bureau, when you are publishing interesting Progressive matter. This especially applies to local stories of enlistments in the Progressive party, and more especially to cases where Democrats in your community join the new party.

An exchange of editorial comments and local news bearing on Progressive party growth will be helpful. It is suggested that where you exchange with Progressive papers and clip matter due credit be given. As you know this will give the effect of a numerous press support of the Progressive party. It is now certain we will be able to count many more good newspaper supporters for the Progressive cause in the coming weeks.

Enclosed is the Progressive national and State ticket. If you are in a position to do so, it is suggested that this ticket be kept standing in your valued paper.

Co-operation and mutual helpfulness by the Progressive press will greatly aid the new party. Let us know how we can help you.

JOHN STOCKHAM IS AN INVENTOR

Former Dry Goods Clerk Here is One of Designers of the Auto Maze.

IS NEW AMUSEMENT DEVICE

Newspaper Accounts Tell of First Exhibition and Say it is Sure to Thrive.

John Stockham, who will be remembered here as a clerk in the J. R. Carmichael dry goods store several years ago, has advanced considerably in the world, having become a successful inventor at Santa Monica, California. He is one of the designers and owners of the Auto Maze, a new amusement device, which has just been tried and proved satisfactory. The Santa Monica Outlook says of the first trial of the Auto Maze:

Yesterday for the first time in the history of amusements, a new one was launched here and it was a decided success in every way. The famed Auto Maze, which was described in this paper before, the first one ever built anywhere, was thrown open and five thousand people enjoyed the thrill and novel ride among them great numbers of old people who found a safe and at the same time exciting and thrilling diversion. The Auto Maze was demonstrated to be a complete success in every way and while not speeded to the limit at first, it went without a hitch or jar and fully justified the fondest hopes of the designers and owners, Messrs. Reynolds and Stockham.

The entrance at the south end of the Dragon Gorge building was handsomely decorated with flowers and palms and presented a most attractive appearance and delighted the hundreds who went in. The promoters of the amusement will build at Long Beach, San Diego, and other points and have already arranged to start at St. Paul, where Mr. Reynolds resides. He will return there in a short time and after disposing of his property interests will become a permanent resident of Santa Monica, California.

The Auto Maze has created a new thing in the way of amusements and combines all the thrills of the scenic railway with absolute safety to all concerned. The illusion of an impending collision yesterday was carried out to perfection, but the collision was impossible of happening and hence did not occur. The Outlook congratulates the builders of the new enterprise which will be the greatest drawing card on the bench.

INTEREST SHOWN IN GAME SUNDAY

Fans Look Forward to One of the Best Contests of the Season—First Real Test.

ATHLETICS HAVE FAST BUNCH

Considerable interest is being shown in the game Sunday between the Mt. Jackson Athletics and the Rushville team. The game promises to be the best of the season as the Athletics are the fastest bunch the locals have yet stacked up against. Manager Maibaugh has received word that a number of fans from the surrounding towns will attend the game.

The Rushville team is aware of the fact that the Athletics are the hardest proposition they have been up against this season but are confident of victory. The local team will have its first real test of the season as all other teams have proved easy. "Chick" Avery will start the game as usual and should the visitors take too kindly to his offerings, Halterman will relieve him. "Bob" Anderson will do the back stopping and Finn will be at third base.

The Fifty-Sixth Annual Rush County Fair

Will be Held August 20-21-22 and 23, 1912

A great effort has been made to make this the greatest Fair in its History. If we can have the support of the people, success is assured.

We have secured Mlle. LaBelle and Dare Devil Hurley in their 20th Century Automobile act, which is the most daring and thrilling out-door act out this season and is worth going miles to see. Nothing like it has ever been seen at a County Fair.

Don't fail to see it.

We have procured some of the best shows that we have ever been able to secure, all clean, moral shows that can be visited by men, women and children.

A full entry of exhibits in all classes. Good music and exciting races.
